

FURTHER SUCCESS FOR APPLIEDORE DEVELOPMENTS' SITE MANAGER

Award-winning housebuilder Appledore Developments' Site Manager, Graham Humphrey, clearly likes being in the limelight. No sooner than he was awarded the prestigious National House-Building Council (NHBC) 'Pride in the Job' Quality Award for his management of The Old Market development in Marden, he now has further reason to celebrate as he has recently been awarded the NHBC Seal of Excellence award too.

Graham, who has worked in the construction industry for over 40 years, said, "I am very proud of The Old Market and delighted to have received a second award from the NHBC for it. The team is just as delighted as I am to have all our hard work formally recognised by the NHBC. This new award is presented to the top site managers that have been selected from the Quality Award winners and I am delighted to be one of them. It just goes to show that our attention to detail and commitment to building high quality homes has not gone unnoticed!"

And Graham isn't the only one celebrating The Old Market's success. Yvette Brotherton, Sales and Marketing Director for Appledore Developments, is equally proud of Graham's achievements, commenting: "The award represents a lot of hard work and dedication by Graham and his team at The Old Market. Appledore's principle ethos is the creation of quality homes that are of the highest specifications with outstanding attention to detail. It is important for us to be able to count on our Site Managers to ensure we are achieving this and I would like to congratulate Graham for all that he has achieved here at The Old Market, he truly deserves it."

The Old Market has understandably received a lot of interest and only a few of the homes now remain, so make sure to come and visit this stunning development before it is too late!

Priced at £199,500 for the last two-bedroom apartment, from £289,000 for a three-bedroom house and £325,000 for the last four-bedroom house.
